

DECISION

Question

What makes people feel heard in decision-making?

Does we have a space to share insights and input, or knowing how the final choice was reached? What helps everyone to feel included, even if they do not fully agree with the outcome?